How Complete Is the Family's Record of What Dad Needs Today?

Twelve quick questions about what's been written down and who's been asked. At the end: what you know, what's still open, and what to ask.

Answer yes, no or not sure. This checks how complete the family's record is. It doesn't measure Dad, and no answer here means he needs more help or that anything should change.

1. Is there a written, dated list of the tasks in Dad's ordinary week, including the ones he does himself?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

2. Do you know which of those tasks he gets a hand with, and from whom?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

3. For the help he gets, do you know how often it happens from a calendar or from someone who has confirmed it, and not from a guess?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

4. Is it written down how Dad gets around, indoors and out, and what helps him hear, see and keep in touch?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

5. Has each person who helps said what they can realistically keep doing?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

6. Has Dad read the family's record and corrected it?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

7. Do you know whether anyone on Dad's care team has said there is a kind of help he needs now, and when they said it?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

8. If anyone in the family has wondered whether Dad should have someone with him or checking in at certain times, is that written down as a question?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

9. Have you asked the people who know Dad's health which changes they'd want to hear about?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

10. If something changed, do you know who you'd contact to ask for a fresh look at what he needs?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

11. Have you written down, as questions, the kinds of help or services you'd want to learn about if things changed?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

12. Does each open question on the family's list have a name beside it for who it goes to?

◯ Yes ◯ No ◯ Not sure

What this doesn't do

It counts what the family has written down and asked, not how Dad is doing. A short “What you know” list means only that some things aren't on paper yet. Each one is a conversation or a few lines of writing, whenever it suits you and him.
